- 2) Jesus' vertical relationship comes into focus.

MY APPLICATION

Use the following questions this week to reflect on what it would mean to align yourself with the truths taught in Scripture. Each question is meant for both personal reflection and as a catalyst for discussion with your family, friends, or small group.

1. When was the last time in your life when you were wronged in some way? How did you respond?
2. From your life, how can you relate to the criminal on the cross next to Jesus? When in your life did you recognize your great need for Him? How did you experience Jesus' response to you?
3. Dr. Ramesh Richard once said, "If the cause is important enough then the cost is irrelevant." From the scriptures, how do we see this to be true in how God acts towards humanity? What scriptures would you use to support your answer?
4. What does looking at Jesus on the cross do to personal glory and self-sufficiency? Why?
5. What kind of participant are you? Mocker, passerby, follower? Why?

MEMORY VERSE
